THE BARONETAGE.

The ALPHABETICAL ARRANGEMENT includes (1) the names of Baronets, and (2) the names of extinct baronetcies that are represented in the female line.

With each biography is given particulars of every living member of the Baronet's family.

Compound surnames are arranged under the letter of the last and principal surname, e.g., Havelock-Allan will be found in its order in the letter A.

Addresses of Clubs; see Contents.

ABBREVIATIONS—See Contents.

An Index to the Surnames and Christian names of married daughters, sisters, and aunts of Baronets and married daughters of Knights is given in a separate section.

It is desirable that information relating to Births, Baptisms, Marriages, Deaths, Promotions, Alterations of Addresses, etc., be forwarded to the Editor as they occur.

The "KNIGHTAGE" and the "COMPANIONAGE" are separate sections of the volume.

DECEASED FEMALE COLLATERALS and their issue are not as a rule referred to in this work.

This ancient family derives its name from the town of Bellingham in Tyndale co. Northumberland, where it appears to have been seated immediately after the conquest, and its descent to the present baronet is in direct male line without any interruption, from Alan de Bellingham, who lived in time of William the Conqueror. Sir Henry Bellingham of Bellingham, was made a knight banneret by Henry VI. after the battle of Wakefield. His son, Sir Roger, was made a banneret after the battle of Stoke in 1487, and left an only son, Sir Robert, who died without male issue. Sir Edward, Gov. of Ireland 1548-9, whom Leland in his History of Ireland, calls "a brave and experienced commander." He was servant of the Privy Chamber to Edward VI., who appointed him Lord Deputy of Ireland. Alan, of Helington, a benchet of the Middle Temple, one of the King's Council at York, and M.P. for Northumberland 1570, his son Sir James, was knighted by James I. in 1603, and died 1642 having married Agnes, da. of Sir Henry Curwen. His son Sir Henry, created a baronet 1620, was M.P. for Westmoreland in all the Parliaments called by Charles I. and raised forces in the north for the royal cause, his son, Sir James, dying without issue, the title became extinct. Henry, son of Robert, and grandson of Alan Bellingham, of Levens Hall, was an officer in a regiment of cavalry raised in the north for suppressing the rebellion in Ireland, and at the termination of that rebellion had lands granted him in co. Louth (which co. the Bellinghams represented 1660-1755), now called Castle Bellingham. These lands were confirmed by patent of King Charles II., and he added to them very considerably by purchase. He died 1676, having married Miss Sibthorpe, and by her had Anne, who married Robert Bickerton of Armagh, brother of Jane, Duchess of Norfolk, and Thomas who raised a regiment of cavalry and served as its Col. with King William in Ireland, where he acted as his guide during the march of the army from Dundalk to the Boyne, served in that action, and after it accompanied the king to Duleek. For these proofs of attachment to King William, the army of King James, in their retreat towards the Boyne, destroyed Bellingham Castle by fire. His son Henry, M.P. for Dundalk, had a son Henry, M.P. for Louth, and a daughter, Elizabeth, who married Rev. John Fortescue, uncle of the late Earl of Clermont. Alan's youngest son of Henry, married Alice, daughter and co-heiress of Rev. H. Montgomery, of Grey Abbey, co. Down, and had issue Henry, leaving issue male which became extinct in 1822, on the death of his grandson, William Henry, an officer in the 6th Regt. Sir William the 4th son, created a baronet in 1796 with remainder to the heirs male of his deceased father, was M.P. for Reigate, Sec. to Pitt, and a Commr. of the Navy, married Hester Frances daughter of the Rev. the Hon. R. Cholmondeley, son of George, 3rd Earl Cholmondeley. The 4th baronet, Sir (Alan) Henry was Private Chamberlain to His Holiness Pope Pius X. (formerly to Leo XIII.) and sat as M.P. for co. Louth (C.H.R.) 1880-85.

This family claims descent from George Broun, who married 1543 Jean Hay, da. of 3rd Lord Yester, ancestor of the Marquess of Tweeddale. The dowry of the lady consisted of the famous "Coulston Pear," which her remote ancestor, Hugo de Gifford of Yester a famous necromancer who d 1267, was supposed to have invested with the extraordinary virtue of securing unflinching prosperity for the family who might possess it. This pear is still preserved at Colstoun, and even when shorn of its superstitious surroundings is nevertheless, a wonderful vegetable curiosity. Sir George Broun, 2nd baronet, m 1692 Lady Elizabeth Mackenzie da. of the 1st Earl of Cromartie, and it is reported that during the first night after her marriage when she slept at Colstoun, she dreamed she had eaten the pear. Her brother in law looked upon this as a bad omen, and expressed great fears that she would be an instrument to destroy the house of Colstoun. Be this as it may, Sir George sold the estates and in 1718 was drowned with his family in the Tyne. On the death of the 5th baronet without male issue his cousin the Rev Richard Broun (the next heir) never assumed the title as 6th baronet, but his el son James was served heir male-general to his cousin, the 5th baronet in 1826, and assumed the Baronetcy as 7th baronet.

Donald Campbell was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia 1628 and resigned his dignity into the King's hands on Aug. 28th 1643 for a new enfeoffment of it and the lands annexed, in favour of his nephew and heirs male. Upon the decease of Donald his nephew (George) did not however claim the title neither did the three next succeeding heirs but about 1790 John Campbell great great grandson of George Campbell (ante) resumed the title as 6th baronet, being followed in turn by his son, John Lieut. Col. of St. Vincent's 1855, and his grandson Maj. Gen. John William Campbell C.B. (who served in Crimean Campaign 1855 in China Campaign 1860, and in Afghanistan 1879-80), whose claim, however to be placed on the Roll of Baronets, a right of the 1628 creation was not recognised, but upon whom a new Baronetcy of the United Kingdom was conferred on Nov. 1913, with special precedence as above mentioned.

The family of Carew is of great antiquity in Devon and Cornwall, and claims a common descent with the Dukes of Leinster and Earls of Plymouth from Otho a powerful English Baron temp Edward the Confessor, whose son, Walter Fitz Other was Castellan of Windsor 1078. For several generations the heads of the family are described as Barons of Carew and Hiron but none of them sat in Parliament with the exception of Nicholas de Carew who subscribed to the celebrated Barons' letter to the Pope in 1300 and from his second son the present family is descended in a direct line.

Sir Edmund Denny (son of William Denny, of Chesham—High Sheriff of Herts 1850) was King's Remembrancer to Henry VIII and a Baron of the Exchequer. His son the Rt. Hon. Sir Anthony Denny P.C. M.P. Ch. of Gentlemen of the Privy Chamber and Groom of the Stole to Henry VIII was the only gentleman who dared to inform the King of his approach, and a decree from him a pair of gloves (which still exist) worked with pearls, he was constituted an Executor of Henry VIII, and one of the Guardians of Edward VI. His grandson, Sir Edward Denny, was created Lord Denny of Waltham 1604 and Earl of Norwich 1625. The present family is descended from Sir Edward Denny, Knight Banneret, M.P. (a younger son of the Rt. Hon. Sir Anthony Denny), who, being Governor of Kerry and Desmond, and Gentleman of the Privy Chamber to Queen Elizabeth, received a grant of the Seignory of Dennyvale and Castlemore co. Kerry, with the Desmond's chief castle of Tralee in 1578 as a reward for his services against the rebel Earl of Desmond and the Spaniards. For successive generations the family provided representatives for Tralee and co. Kerry in Parliament. Sir Barry and Et. was killed in a duel 1894 when about to be raised to the peerage. There is no such place as "Castle Moyle" and it is stated to be an error in the patent of Baronetcy for Castle More i.e. "the great castle" of Tralee.

The Esmondes are descended from a family, which was seated in the 10th century in co. Wexford and one of whose members was Bishop of Ferns in 1340, and another Bishop of Fmly 1356. In the reign of Elizabeth Sir Lawrence Esmond abandoning the creed of his ancestors espoused the cause of H M, professed himself a Protestant and was created Lord Esmonde. He married a Roman Catholic lady one of the O Flaherties of Connaught by whom he had a son. The mother fearing that her child would be reared a Protestant, ran off with the boy, whom she brought up as a strict Catholic. By the statute of Kilkenny, the marriage was voidable in law. One son subsequently gained possession of the Wexford estate and would probably have gained the peerage, but for the confusion wrought by civil war. He raised a troop of horse for the service of Charles I and commanded a Regt in the Duke of Buckingham's expedition to Rochelle, on his return from which he was created a baronet in his father's lifetime. The 9th baronet the Right Hon Sir Thomas, sat as M P for Wexford (L) 1841-7 and the 10th baronet sat as M P for Waterford (L) 1852-76.

Alexander III, received by charter the lordship of Loveth and he and his brother (Sir Francis), his cousin (Sir Richard Fraser), and William Fraser, Archbishop of St. Andrews and Lord Chancellor of Scotland, were appointed auditors in the competition for the Scottish crown between Bruce and Baliol, in 1291. From the 2nd and son of Hugh Fraser, created Baron Lovat by James I of Scotland, the present baronet is descended in a direct male line. Sir James, the 3rd baronet, served with distinction in the Peninsula and was on the staff at Waterloo. The 4th baronet sat as M.P. for Barnstaple 1851-3 and 1857-9, for Ludlow (C) 1863-5, and for Kidderminster 1874-80.
